PROFILE

2023 LSE MSc graduate and former European Parliament trainee, currently Policy Analyst at the European Policy Centre working on AI, public health and social policy. In my master's degree, I specialised in EU policy-making and digital policy, writing my dissertation on generative AI and the Italian labour market. My roles since then have allowed me to stay on top of the EU legislative cycle across areas, though I seek to transition into either an advocacy or policy research role focusing on digital sovereignty, frontier AI safety or ethics.
